

Have a Dezi Day | 39

A HUNDRED FEET

What a difference
A hundred feet can make
Underneath I-35
On the river, that's a lake
On the bridge the countless cars
Driving north or southbound
Just 100 feet below them
Tranquility, can be found
On the bridge, cars hurry
To get to where they're going
100 feet below them
Canoes and kayaks slowly rowing
The peacefulness and nature's view
Take your breath away
Town Lake in Austin, Texas
On a mid-November day

"THE PAGES IN BETWEEN"

A book will never teach us
From the shelf where it is seen;
The story and the knowledge gained
Come from the pages in between.
Single words will never move you
To think or cry or laugh;
It's the power of the message
In a sentence or a paragraph.
The stories in each chapter,
How they build upon the other:
You don't want to put it down
Until you can read another...
Well told, well said, and well written
As told by a new found friend,
Capturing your mind, heart and soul
From the beginning to the end.
A book will never teach us
From the shelf where it is seen;
The story and the knowledge gained
Come from the pages in between.

Have a Dezi Day | 23

ONCE YOU POUR IT OUT

If you woke up in this morning, miserable

Tell me what that's about

The milk isn't spoiled no more

You know, once you pour it out

Try your best to laugh and smile

At what life puts you through

You know misery loves company

Don't let it get to you

In all the things you do in life

Try to find the higher ground

That's the place you're looking for

Where happiness can be found

Best lesson I've learned in life

It's true I have no doubt

The milk isn't spoiled no more

You know, once you pour it out

IT KEEPS ON SPINNING

Life always shows us glimpses
A picture story, only life itself could tell
And as its inhabitants, what we have to do
If our time on earth, will turn out well
Although it brings both famine and flood
Along with countless disasters and disease
It also brings us fresh water and blue skies
The warmth of both the sun and gentle breeze
Each of us who resides upon the planet
However long it's meant for each of us to get
Over time our own experiences also tell us
Stories none of us should ever forget
That our world, just like the weather
Is always in a constant state of change
And although the world will never stop for us
That it's our lives, we have to rearrange

