

Dear Parents;

It is with an incredibly heavy heart that I must tell you that due to personal reasons Ms. Jaci will not be teaching at Aloma anymore.

Jaci has been a wonderful teacher and I have told her that she is very gifted with the children. I am very sad that she is leaving. I know we serve an awesome God and that He has great things for Jaci as well as great things for our school.

I want you to know that your children are well loved at Aloma and I will make sure that whoever we get to teach the Two's class will be someone that loves the children and wants the best for them. This has always been our priority at Aloma, to love the children we serve.

Many times when a change occurs, parents start to get anxious and wonder how it will affect their child. Please let me assure you that in my 19 years here at Aloma ECLC, changes have happened more than a few times in the past and each time the children did fine with the change. Children are extremely resilient. It is usually the parents that have a harder time with change than the children. So, if you are relaxed and don't show your children any anxiety about it, they will not feel anxious. If you are upset about the change, they will be upset. Children usually pick up on the emotions of the parents.

Please rest assured that we always have your child's best interest in mind when we make changes to the program and I feel sure that Ms. Savannah will continue the great things through to the end of the year.

If you have any questions, please feel free to ask me and I will be happy to answer any questions that you have about this transition time.

Blessings,
